HUNDREDS ROOM NIAGARA DECKS

Mammoth Lines Interest Many Honoluluans During Short Sojourn Here.

A constant procession of local people filed across the gangways leading from Alakea wharf to the handsome new Canadian-Australasian liner Niagara yesterday afternoon and evening. Despite the fixing of the hours for inspection, hundreds presented themselves for admission to the ship up to but a short time before the advertised sailing for Vancouver and Victoria.

Every courtesy was extended the visitors by the official staff of the Niagara.

The ladies were of course much interested in viewing the first class dining saloon—a spacious apartment, with dining accommodation for 190 passengers. It is decorated in Louis XVI style, and the ceiling and walls are painted white. It is situated on the upper deck amidships, convenient to the main entrance, and has a large well overhead. A feature of the saloon is that the tables are all arranged for small parties. In the first class lounge the style adopted is also Louis XVI. It is on the promenade deck, two decks above the dining saloon, and is arranged in small bays and cozy corners. The open well over the dining saloon rises through the center of the lounge, and is lighted by a large dome on the boat deck. The walls and ceiling are painted white, relieved in gold.

The library and writing room is situated at the fore end of the first class accommodation on the shelter deck, and is specially designed for the comfort of passengers who desire to pass the time quietly with reading or writing, small tables being arranged well apart from each other. This room is finished in gray and walnut, with moldings of white and gilt. The style is Louis XVI. The music room, situated on the forward end of the promenade deck, is in Adams style, with white panelings and mahogany furniture. A large dome overhead adds to the splendid appearance of this spacious apartment. The smoking room is also on the promenade deck. The style adopted here is Georgian, and the paneling is of polished hardwood. The arrangements of this room are according to the most up-to-date ideas.

The Niagara was joined at this port by 17 passengers. Less than one hundred tons of cargo were placed aboard during the stay. Fuel oil to the amount of nearly 2000 barrels was supplied.

The Royal Hawaiian Band played a pleasing program of melodies prior to the departure of the great liner for British Columbia at 8:30 o'clock last evening.

Likeli in with Sugar Cargo.

An arrival this morning from Kaula ports, the steamer Likeli will be given a quick dispatch, following the discharge of 6000 sacks sugar. This vessel brought shipments of sundries, 4 head cattle.

The Inter-Island has received wireless to the effect that the steamer Nihau is due to return from Kaula on Saturday bringing 6500 sacks sugar, a portion of which was loaded at Waimea. At the time the Likeli called at Waimea, a heavy swell was running. Fine weather was experienced on the remainder of the voyage.

Hall Leads for Garden Island.

Five thousand sacks sugar have been discharged from the Inter-Island steamer W. G. Hall and that vessel has been made ready to proceed to the Garden Island at five o'clock this evening, taking shipments of lumber, fertilizer and sundries. Several passengers have been booked.

Claudine Here With Island Products.

The Inter-Island steamer Claudine returned from Maui ports this morning, bringing island products, including crates of chickens, a quantity of empties, 50 crates of onions, 5 sacks of awa, 30 sacks of taro, 6 sacks of coconuts and 122 packages of sundries.

BIG SHIP SEWALL ISAKA SOON SAILED WITH SUGAR

With the last of a shipment of five thousand tons of sugar aboard, all of which was the product from Maui plantations, and manned by new officers as well as a new crew, the big American ship Edward Sewall was towed from Kahului harbor to sea by the Inter-Island steamer Claudine yesterday afternoon.

Captain Quick, master of the Sewall, completed arrangements here for a number of additional men, who reached destination in ample time to reach destination in ample time to mer.

The Sewall and her cargo are destined for the east coast of the United States by the way of Cape Horn. Upon arrival at Delaware Breakwater the skipper will probably receive further orders as to the exact port of destination.

The ship fared extremely well in the accident which sent her to a soft coral reef soon after arrival at Kahului. The final report submitted to the local representatives showed that little or no damage was done through the stranding of the ship. The vessel sailed away in a moderate light north-east wind. The Sewall was sighted at fifteen miles off Diamond Head this morning.

Sewall Crew Widely Scattered

The crew brought to the islands in the big American ship Edward Sewall is reported to have been widely scattered according to advices received today with the arrival of the Inter-Island steamer Claudine. The sailors left the ship following the arrival at Kahului. It is claimed that some were in such haste to break away from the windjammer that they leaped over the side and swam for the shore. The Sewall cleared and sailed today for the east coast of the United States.

PLANS BOOSTING CAMPAIGN ON COAST

Advertising Hawaii through the medium of mainland boosters of the Islands is the unique plan now being advocated by H. F. Wood, secretary of the promotion committee and chairman of the board of exposition commissioners for Hawaii, who proposes to establish in San Francisco an information bureau for the benefit of tourists enroute to Honolulu.

"There are a number of persons in San Francisco who are deeply interested in Hawaii and its interests," said Secretary Wood this morning, "among them big Captain Matson of the Matson Navigation Company; J. F. C. Hagens, manager of the Pacific Fertilizer Company, as well as the representative of various local firms. My plan is to get them to organize and appoint special committee of three or five persons to study the conditions with view of opening an advertising campaign in the coast city. My idea is to open an office there which would be in charge of a competent stenographer. I have a young Hawaiian in mind who is now living in San Francisco and whom I believe will fit the position. One of the duties of the office would be to obtain for the steamship companies, several of before any liners sail for Honolulu or the Orient, complete lists of passengers, on board. Individual firms would be mailed these passing containing complete information about Hawaii.

"It is also to be arranged to have this office take action on other promotional work, and meet from time to time for the purpose of suggesting further plans. Hawaii is going to benefit by the exposition and I do believe that we can commence active advertising campaign too."

Stark Wood leaves for the coast on May 31, and while in San Francisco, besides attending to his duties in connection with the Hawaii exposition, he will make investigation of the establishment of a proposed information bureau. A few days in San Francisco he will enable him to visit the principal coast cities.

John King Samuels, 21 years old, regarded as the richest enlisted man in the United States navy, is attached to the receiving ship Iris, having arrived in San Diego recently after enlisting at Los Angeles. A few months ago this sailor, who loves the sea better than he does the joys of living ashore, became heir to an estate valued at $2,000,000. For the next four years he will work for about $20 a month.

Samuels first enlisted in the United States navy on his seventeenth birthday. A month ago he was honorably discharged and went to Ocean Park to reside. Saturday, to use the vernacular of the navy, he "shipped over for another hitch," being sent to the Iris for duty.

According to the attaches of the recruiting station at Los Angeles, Samuels wears a diamond on the little finger of his left hand that resembles a searchlight of one of the big cruisers as far as brilliancy is concerned.
